TOP 5 SIGHTS ON YOUR WAY TO THE NATIONAL PARKS

One of the best ways to experience the American West in Wyoming is to explore the wonders of our national parks. Make the journey as unforgettable as the destination by spending time in Sweetwater County along the way. It's no secret that you'll have fun when you get there, but why not have better stories to tell when you show up?

LAKE FLAMING GORGE

Discover the 91-mile long Lake Flaming Gorge just south of Rock Springs and Green River. The national recreation area attracts all types of adventurers from anglers to campers. Three marinas are located around the gorge to rent boats and other recreation equipment to add to your adventure.

See page 27 for more information.

DOWNTOWN ART MURALS IN ROCK SPRINGS & GREEN RIVER

The colorful murals in Rock Springs and Green River reflect the vibrant towns they call home, each telling a different story of the culture, wildlife and history of the region. The "Spirit of the Wild" mural on Flaming Gorge Way in Green River features horses running alongside a train and the rock formation Castle Rock.

See page 9 for more information.

WHITE MOUNTAIN PETROGLYPHS

Continue north to the White Mountain Petroglyphs site and hike a short distance to view the sandstone etchings dating back more than 200 years. The landscape is an important cultural site for Native Americans featuring more than a dozen panels of rock art.

See page 22 for more information.

PILOT BUTTE WILD HORSES

Take the opportunity to view the area's wild horses by driving along the Pilot Butte Wild Horse Scenic Loop. Over a thousand wild horses roam these areas, and the best times to spot them are early morning or late afternoon.

See page 33 for more information.

SEEDSKADEE NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE

After viewing the wild horses, drive to the Seedskaelee National Wildlife Refuge for a hike and riverside picnic. Take the opportunity to practice some wildlife photography in a variety of ecosystems from aquatic to terrestrial.

See page 34 for more information.

GRAND TETON NATIONAL PARK

As you drive through the plains toward northwestern Wyoming, Grand Teton National Park unexpectedly takes your breath away. The majestic mountains rise suddenly from the surrounding plains and pierce the sky. One look, and it's no wonder why these mountains are some of the most photographed in the world. And as you explore crystal-clear lakes, watch the vibrant wildlife and spend hours hiking, biking, kayaking or skiing, it's sure to become a must-return destination.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK

Spanning into areas of Wyoming, Montana and Idaho, Yellowstone National Park remains one of the most visited to date. Established in 1872, America's first national park is a living and lush volcanic playground boasting some of the most photographic scenery in the world. Nestled in the beautiful hills and dense forests is a colorful mineral field full of geysers and hot springs. Vast herds of elk and buffalo are proud to call the area home. Witnessing the reliability of Old Faithful with bison watching from a distance is a sight you won't soon forget.

ROCK SPRINGS

DIG DEEP INTO WYOMING'S

Mining and Railroad History

Some people come to Rock Springs to enrich their knowledge of Wyoming's mining heritage. Others come to take a trip back in time on the tracks of railroaders' past. But no one expects to find such a culturally diverse melting pot in this high-desert oasis. Surprised? You haven't seen anything yet.

ABOUT ROCK SPRINGS

Named for a former spring that babbled through town, Rock Springs actually sprung from the growth and development of the area's coal mining industry. In 1868, the coal mined here powered the steam engines of the Union Pacific Railroad. They laid hundreds of miles of track, which helped surrounding towns thrive. And the booming railroad and mining work left behind a culturally rich community that's represented by dozens of nationalities. The railroad's conversion to diesel and oil power in the mid-1900s drove out many of the city's coal mines. Today, Rock Springs thrives with trona mines, oil, gas, and other industry sectors, keeping the city vibrant with locals and visitors alike.

THINGS TO DO

WWCC NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM

WALK WITH WYOMING'S GIANTS.

Tens of millions of years before humans shook the ground in Sweetwater County mining for coal, dinosaurs thundered across Southwest Wyoming. To witness the size and majesty of these earliest residents of the area, you can see five life-size replicas at Western Wyoming Community College in Rock Springs.

Visit the Museum:

The WWCC Natural History Museum is an archaeologist's and geologist's playground, displaying a stunning collection of stones and several wall-mounted fossils of fish, palm leaves and reptiles discovered in the area. To learn about the earliest known humans who lived here, feast your eyes on prehistoric pottery, small fossils and other evidence of our ancient neighbors. While you're there, be sure to stop by WWCC's bookstore for fun dinosaur-related souvenirs.

COMMUNITY FINE ARTS CENTER

DISCOVER YOUR ARTISTIC ROOTS.

A unique collaboration between Rock Springs, Sweetwater County and the local school district, the Community Fine Arts Center is now home to a permanent collection of more than 500 original American works.

A Collection of Culture:

Founded in 1965 by a local science teacher (yes, a science teacher), the Community Fine Arts Center in Rock Springs is a cultural gem in Southwest Wyoming. The center's first painting, Shack Alley by Henrietta Wood, was actually purchased in 1939 to hang in the local high school. This first painting inspired an appreciation for the arts that motivated Elmer Halseth to travel America to buy paintings, drawings and prints with nickels and dimes earned at school carnivals, bake sales and donation jars. The collection grew and eventually needed a home of its own.

At the Community Fine Arts Center you can marvel at pieces from artists like Norman Rockwell, Grandma Moses, Loren McGiver, Elliott Orr, Edward Chavez, Paul Horiuchi, Ilya Bolotowsky, Raphael Soyer and Rufino Tamayo, along with other well known local and regional Wyoming artists. And for something fresh each time you come, enjoy the rotating exhibit of traditional and contemporary paintings, sculptures, prints and photography.

HISTORICAL MUSEUM

MINE THE ROCK SPRINGS PAST.

Incorporated in 1888, Rock Springs owes much of its existence to the mining industry, boasting as many as ten coal mines in the downtown area alone at one point.

A Taste of History:

Coal miners from Kentucky and Pennsylvania brought their underground experience to Rock Springs, but the booming workload sent recruiters to Europe and other countries to find more help. This broad-scale immigration turned the town into the nation's leader in coal production and made Rock Springs one of the most ethnically diverse melting pots west of the Mississippi.

Some well known outlaws also made their way through Rock Springs over the years. Robert Leroy Parker, more commonly known as Butch Cassidy, got his nickname after working in a local butcher shop. And it's rumored that Calamity Jane had a dugout on what is now M Street. From dig-ups to hold-ups, Rock Springs has seen a bit of it all.

Visit the Museum:

The Rock Springs Historical Museum is housed in what was once the Rock Springs City Hall—built of sandstone brick in 1894. Each year, the museum offers regularly rotating exhibits that showcase the town's proud heritage, allowing visitors a chance to appreciate the perseverance it took to carve out a livelihood in this unforgiving landscape. The museum staff is happy to answer any questions you have about the history of Rock Springs, and they'll steer you to other points of interest, such as a self-guided walking tour of historic downtown.

GREEN RIVER

Get Wet and Run Wild

Who needs an amusement park when nature has all the best rides? And in Green River, you don't have to worry about the lines. From world-class fishing and wildlife watching to river tubing and swimming, you'll find everything you need to enjoy the great outdoors. And when you're not on the go, you can settle a rivalry at one of the family sports complexes or relax and take in the scenery.

ABOUT GREEN RIVER

Explorer John Wesley Powell recognized the beauty of Green River in 1869 on his way south to the splendor of the Grand Canyon. But today, Green River is a recreational hot spot, offering both indoor and outdoor fun year-round and a chance to see Wyoming's diverse wildlife. Enjoyed by go-getters and naturalists alike, the area's natural beauty is carefully preserved in the many trails, parks, sport complexes and rock formations.

HISTORIC DOWNTOWN

Eat, shop and experience the Spirit of the New West in Green River's historic downtown. The city's riverfront location makes it a haven for adventurers while offering plenty of history and culture to uncover.

CLOCK TOWER

THINGS TO DO

SWEETWATER COUNTY HISTORICAL MUSEUM

WALK IN THE SHOES (OR MOCCASINS) OF EARLY SWEETWATER SETTLERS.

From the early 1800s through the present day, Sweetwater County has been a bustling area of Southwest Wyoming's pioneer settlers and Native Americans. During the western expansion, the county saw the likes of fur traders, miners, rail-roaders and more. Take one step in the county, and it's easy to transport yourself to the pioneer days.

A Taste of History:

Luckily, Sweetwater County's history is well preserved through timeless photography, original structures and the people themselves. From Sioux art pieces dating to the turn of the last century, to a Sharps buffalo rifle owned by Sheriff W. A. Johnson, to the coal mining artifacts from the Union Pacific Coal Company, Sweetwater County has a long list of stories to tell.

Visit the Museum:

Established in 1967, the Sweetwater County Historical Museum is housed in a 1931 post office building in Green River. Listed on the National Register of Historic Places, the museum offers a variety of both permanent and seasonal exhibits that give visitors a chance to experience what life was like for the area's early settlers and Native Americans.

Peek into the past by viewing the museum's collection of antique photos and artifacts that highlight the mining towns of Dines, Winton, E-Plane, Gunn and others. The museum also administers the historic Reliance Tipple where visitors can take an interpretive walking tour around the tipple and hear coal mining stories.

EXPEDITION ISLAND

ADVENTURE AT EVERY BEND.

When it comes to really chilling out in Sweetwater County, the Green River is the best place to go. Winding through the stunning Southwest Wyoming landscape, this mighty river offers something fun at every bend for kayakers, canoeists, rafters, tubers and anyone who just wants to get wet and cool off.

In the heart of the city, the Green River Whitewater Park and Tubing Channel offers a little bit of everything. From challenging rapids to gentle wading pools, river-goers can wade, swim, tube, or take the plunge on up to four-foot drops. Advanced kayakers are known for taking on the southern channel, where Castle Falls churns, waiting to stir the butterflies in excited stomachs. For a longer float, drop a raft, kayak, or paddle board in at Expedition Island and float through town to Stratton Meyers Park.

Expedition Island:

If you want to blend a little history with your Green River adventure, Expedition Island in the City of Green River is at the ready. Originally a starting point for Major John Wesley Powell's expeditions in 1869 and 1871, this island oasis is the perfect spot for family picnics, tubing, kayaking, "blue ribbon" trout fishing and rafting. Or just take a stroll on the island's path while the kids monkey around on the playground. If you visit at just the right time, you can catch an event like the River Festival, Art On the Green or Flaming Gorge Days.

Splash Park:

And what would a wet-and-wild Green River adventure be without some time at the Splash Park? Located in Evers Park adjacent to Expedition Island, this free public park offers six different motion-activated water features, giving you the perfect way to beat the summer heat.

ROLLING GREEN COUNTRY CLUB

ENJOY A MORE RELAXING KIND OF DRIVE.

Nestled along the beautiful Green River, Rolling Green Country Club boasts an extraordinary golf course for players of all levels and any age and welcomes non-members living at least 100 miles away.

As you challenge your handicap on the mature and exceptionally groomed fairways and greens, make sure to keep your eye out for moose, deer and waterfowl that are sure to add to the company of your match. And as you head to the clubhouse after hole 18, save your appetite for some fairway fare.

GREEN RIVER RAILYARD

DISCOVER A RAILROADING PAST.

History of the Green River Railyard:

Since 1868 when the Union Pacific Railroad reached the City of Green River and established a station there, the Green River Railyard has had a major impact on the area. Up until the 1970s, the railyard continued to expand with roundhouses, car sheds, machine shops, passenger depots and restaurants. At its height during World War

II (1941-45), over 100 trains passed through Green River each day.

Then, in the 1950s, diesel engines began to replace steam engines, airlines took a share of the passenger market and trucks hauled cargo instead of trains. Even so, the railroad was the primary employer in Green River until the growth of the trona mining industry in the 1970s.

In 1983, the last regularly scheduled passenger train passed through Green River. The roundhouse was torn down and the elegant passenger depot was converted into offices. Early hotels that once served travelers and railroad crews were demolished or sat vacant.

The Green River Railyard Today:

The pedestrian overpass spans the Green River Railyard connecting the two sides of town and reminding visitors of the area's local history. Pedestrian overpass bridges were built as a safe way to cross the tracks. Although most towns once had an overpass, those in Green River and Laramie are the only remaining ones in Wyoming. The pedestrian overpass offers an expansive view of the depot, railyards and occasional passing trains.

The Green River Railyard is still used by the Union Pacific today, although operations have been greatly reduced. Several freight trains still pass through on a daily basis.

The historic Green River depot can be viewed from the outside and appears much as it did when in use.

SUPERIOR

GET BURIED IN MINING HISTORY.

Superior

What to See and Do:

Stop by the restored Union Hall, once the largest union building in the West. • Hike the scenic trails of the Continental Divide. • Discover one of the remaining large concrete arrows used in the early 1900s to help air-mail pilots navigate transcontinental flights and deliver mail.

In its heyday, Superior was home to a thriving mining population, and it even led the West in mining production. And if you look at the abandoned mines today, you might think they're just empty holes. Fortunately, these mines are anything but empty. They're full of history and the memories of the thousands of miners who put them on the map.

About Superior:

Fueled by the booming times of the Union Pacific Coal Mines, Superior was once home to nine coal mines and bustling communities. The area's most efficient mine—and the last to close—was the D.O. Clark mine, the largest producing mine west of the Mississippi. Superior's mining days might be long gone, but the spirit and independence of those lively times remain.

WAMSUTTER

HANG WITH THE LOCALS.

Wamsutter

What to See and Do:

Bring a camera and some binoculars to view the area's wildlife. • Hike miles of trails and enjoy the unique scenery.

If your idea of mingling with the locals involves antlers, then you'll feel right at home in Wamsutter. It's a perfect place to admire Wyoming's stunning scenery and explore its unique geology. Here, the wildlife seems to blend right in.

About Wamsutter:

Originally inhabited by Shoshone and Ute tribes, Wamsutter was founded in 1868 to service the transcontinental railroad, and it was formally incorporated in 1914. It has since served as a hotbed for sheep operations, wild horse roundups, uranium explorations, oil production and natural gas development. Not to mention, it's home to the world's only desert elk herd and the largest herd of Pronghorn antelope, who frequently wander through the community.

HISTORIC SOUTH PASS

CATCH A CASE OF GOLD FEVER.

Historic South Pass

What to See and Do:

Tour the Carissa Mine. • Walk the Flood & Hindle Mining Trail. • Learn about the town on a guided South Pass City Tour. • Visit in mid-July for Gold Rush Days festival.

If you visited in the mid-1800s, South Pass would have been swarming with gold-hungry crowds. Thankfully, the crowds are much smaller these days, so you can have a more intimate experience as you dig in and strike it rich in the area's history. But if it's gold you seek, you can still try your luck at panning.

About South Pass:

Long before the mass move to the West, trappers and traders shared South Pass with Native Americans. But when gold was discovered in California in 1849, the area became a heavily traveled route for those chasing riches. And then in 1867, the Carissa Lode was found and word of gold in South Pass spread like wildfire. The short-lived gold frenzy left a long mark on the area.

THE EDEN VALLEY

INSPIRE YOUR INNER PIONEER.

Farson Mercantile

What to See and Do:

Stop by the Farson Mercantile for the famous Big Cone ice cream, pizza and gifts. • Tent, boat, or stargaze at the Big Sandy Reservoir. • Hike and bike on historic trails.

Decades ago, the Eden Valley served as a gateway to the West, welcoming travelers across the Oregon and Mormon Trails. Today, it serves as a gateway to imagination as you discover its native roots.

About Eden Valley:

Starting with Native Americans, then followed by fur traders, mountain men and western pioneers, the Eden Valley served as a thoroughfare for settlers and passers-through. The town was settled in 1907 when John M. Farson's large-scale irrigation developments attracted long-term settlers. The promise of fruit orchards was the beginning of the farming and ranching community that still thrives today.

GRANGER

FOLLOW THE TRAIL TO HISTORIC CROSSROADS.

Granger Stage Station Historic Site

What to See and Do:

Explore the Granger Stage Station Historic Site. • Stand before monuments to the Overland Trails and Pony Express. • Learn the history of fur trapping, trading and the stagecoach industry.

Once Granger was a hub for fur trappers but became an important crossroads for westward trails. Now the small town pays homage to its important history with a State Historic Site.

About Granger:

Granger is home to the Granger Stage Station Historic Site that was originally built for the Overland Trail in the 1850s. The station soon became a stop for many trails including the Oregon Trail, California Trail, Mormon Trail and even The Pony Express. Today visitors can step inside the old stone building - imagine if walls could talk!

5 WAYS TO EXPERIENCE RICH WESTERN HISTORY

For history buffs and old-west enthusiasts alike, Sweetwater County offers a unique view into the past. A number of historic sites, trails and museums give you an opportunity to experience what it was like in the days of the pioneers and beyond. From dinosaur fossils to Native American artifacts, come create your most memorable historic adventure with these five must-see attractions.

#1 HISTORIC PIONEER TRAILS

The opportunities chased in the 1800s by pioneers who braved unsettled lands is still evident in the network of Southwest Wyoming's historic trails. Just like the wooden wheels carved the land, it's easy to carve out an adventure of your own. No other place in the United States has more miles of still-visible pioneer trails than Sweetwater County.

The Oregon Trail

Easily one of the most famous pioneer trails in the United States, the Oregon Trail was a major thoroughfare that guided about 400,000 people across the vast expanse of the West from 1846 to 1869. The 2,000-mile trail helped expand the California Gold Rush and connected the Missouri River Valley with the Oregon coast. The stretch through Sweetwater County is one of the most intact today.

HOW TO ACCESS IT: Fort Bridger State Historic Park, Pilot Butte Trail Site or South Pass State Historic Site.

Pony Express Route

In the early 1860s, the Pony Express passed through Sweetwater County during the height of its service. As the main source of information from coast to coast, riders accessed a series of relay stations along a central trail. The terrain offered mail carriers expanses where they could ride a horse at full gallop and then change horses at the next station, which cut mail delivery times by 10 days.

HOW TO ACCESS IT: Fort Bridger State Historic Park and South Pass State Historic Park.

Cherokee Trail

Also known as the Trappers Trail, Cherokee Trail was primarily used by cattlemen driving herds north and south and by droves of hopefuls seeking their fortunes in gold. The area's economic growth and the settlement of the West owes much to this historic trail that ran from Oklahoma through Kansas and Colorado into Wyoming.

HOW TO ACCESS IT: Take an AWD vehicle just north of Baggs to the old Emigrant Trail, east of US-191. It eventually crosses Dans Creek, Little Bitter Creek and Sage Creek (twice) before arriving at the Green River just above the Blacks Fork River Confluence.

Overland Trail

Famously used by the Overland Stage Company in the mid-1800s, the Overland Trail was used frequently as a mail route to Salt Lake City. The Overland Stage Company had purchased the bankrupt assets of the Pony Express in 1861 which created an alternate route to Oregon and California, paving the way for significant development in those areas. Today, the Overland Trail is one of the most accessible pioneer trails in Sweetwater County.

HOW TO ACCESS IT: Point of Rocks and Granger along I-80.

Mormon Trail

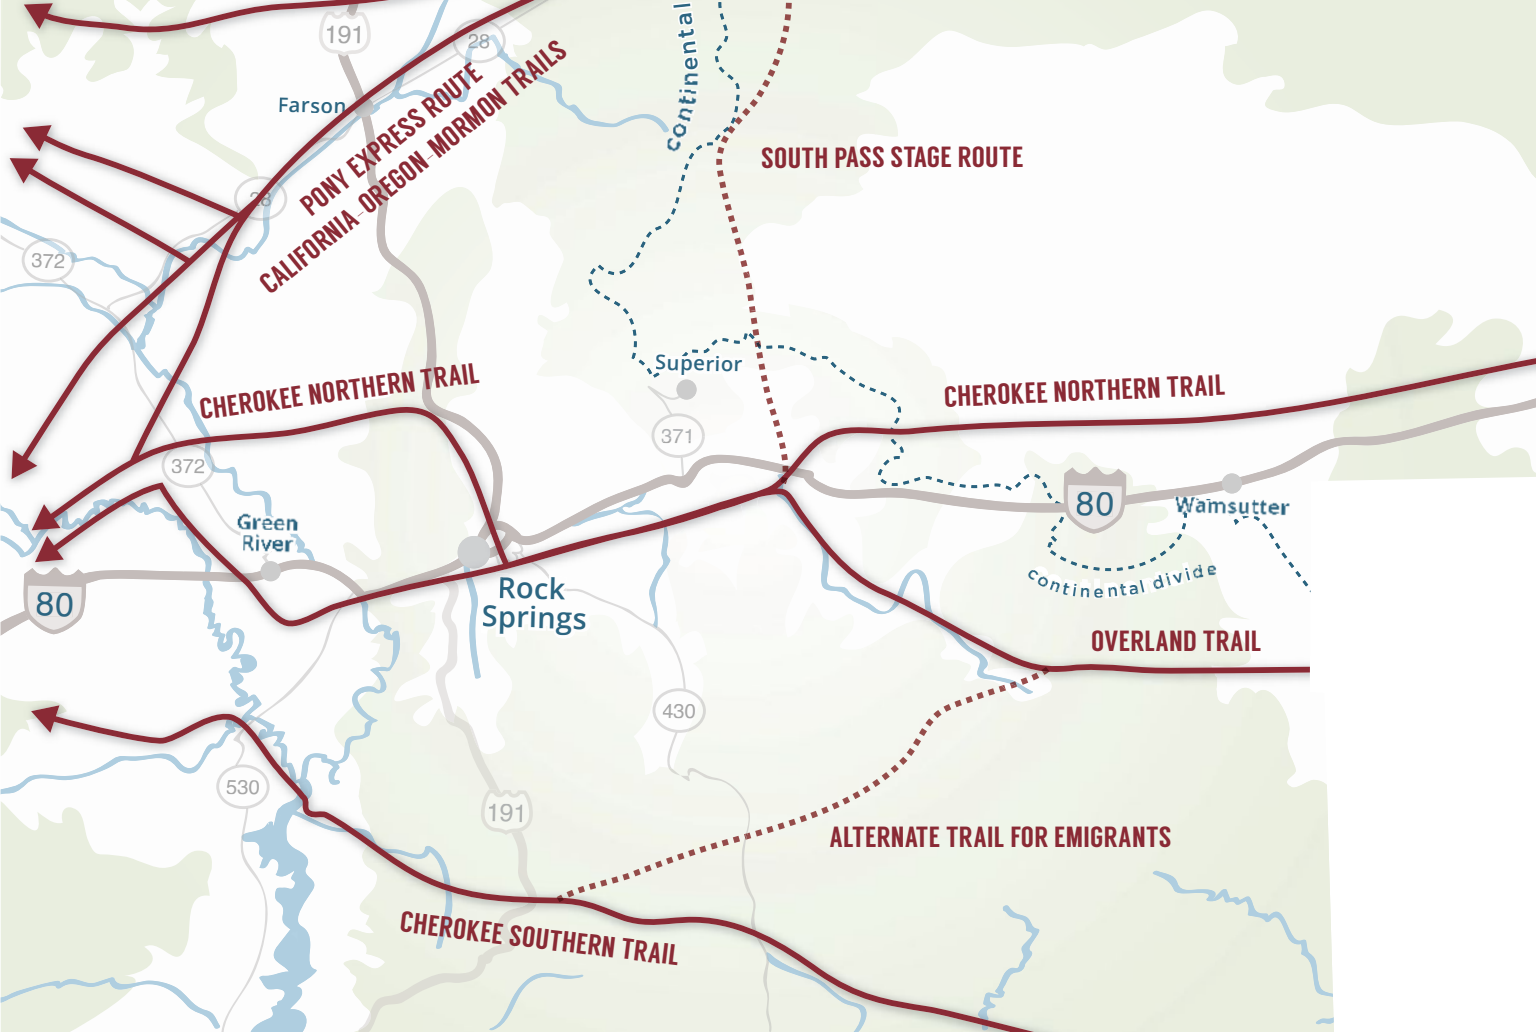

Taking a leap of faith, thousands of Latter Day Saints made their way west in the mid-1800s to get to their church in the heart of Salt Lake City. The Mormon Trail passed through a substantial portion of Sweetwater County, following roughly the same route of the Oregon Trail and the California and Pony Express Trails.

HOW TO ACCESS IT: Fort Bridger State Historic Park or South Pass State Historic Park.

Outlaw Trail

It's only natural for those who break the law to want to avoid any chance of crossing paths with those that enforce the law. So in their days of lawlessness, outlaws such as Butch Cassidy, the Sundance Kid and Jesse James made a trail of their own through Southern Wyoming. But today, they're not around to hold you up on the Outlaw Trail.

HOW TO ACCESS IT: Take US-191 south to the Utah border, just east of Flaming Gorge National Recreation Area. Stop by the old hideout, Mimmie's Gap, while you're there.

Pilot Butte Overlook

In the middle of the 19th century, Pilot Butte marked a convergence of Indian-migrant relations and the Transcontinental Telegraph. As you read the interpretive signs along the ruts of the trails including the Oregon Trail, Mormon Trail, Pony Express Route and the California National Historic Trail, it's hard not to imagine caravans of wagons passing by.

HOW TO ACCESS IT: About 12 miles west of Farson on HWY-28.

Old Emigrant Trail

During the mid-1800s, migrants from the eastern United States made a long journey westward seeking better lives, freedom from religion and even the prosperity of gold. The Old Emigrant Trail is an overlap of the Oregon Trail, California Trail and Mormon Trail. The trail passes through Sweetwater County and still carries the marks of the migrants who chased new opportunities in the West.

HOW TO ACCESS IT: Take the Overland Trail to Fort Laclede and turn southwest until it meets up with the Cherokee Trail on the Little Bitter Creek. Follow the trail to Lone Tree Station and on to Fort Bridger, then go northwest through the Bridger Antelope Trap.

TIPS FOR ADVENTURING RESPONSIBLY

Learn Local History

Take the time to learn about the places you visit - this can give you a better understanding and appreciation of the area along with helping you to create relationships with locals. Rock Springs and Green River have a rich history filled with prehistoric dinosaurs, outlaws, railroading, coal mining and more.

#2 WHITE MOUNTAIN PETROGLYPHS

Etched into the sandstone walls of White Mountain, a unique version of Southwest Wyoming's history is told. The Plains and Great Basin Native Americans who lived in this area anywhere from 200 to 1,000 years ago left a legacy of their lifestyle in the form of hundreds of fascinating carvings.

Located in the Upper Wasatch formation, the White Mountain Petroglyphs are a permanent reminder of the ancient people who called Sweetwater County home. With a 300-foot cliff face as their canvas, the area's earliest-known human inhabitants created rock art that tells stories of a time long ago. Anyone can learn about Southwest Wyoming's history in the pages of a book or with a click of the mouse, but not everyone gets to view the stories told by those who lived it.

HOW TO ACCESS IT: Head up US-191 about 10 miles north of Rock Springs. Turn right at CR 4-18 (at the sign that reads Petroglyphs, Sand Dunes, Boar's Tusk), then left at CR 4-17, and drive about 14 miles on the dirt road until you reach the White Mountain Petroglyphs sign. Turn left onto the rougher dirt road and drive about 2 miles until you reach the BLM parking lot. From here, you're on foot for a 1/2-mile, on a packed foot trail to the petroglyphs. Make sure to travel in a fueled-up AWD vehicle in nice weather with plenty of daylight. Pack food and water and let someone know where you're going and when you plan to return.

#3 THE RELIANCE TIPPLE

Around the turn of the 20th century, there appeared to be no stopping the industrial engines of the American economy. Fueling much of this growth was coal, and Wyoming was a significant provider of this resource. The mining and railroad industries gave birth to towns throughout much of the state, many which all but disappeared. But the spirit of the mining towns still seems to linger.

In Sweetwater County, you can visit the Reliance Tipple, where the remains of a coal mining town and its structures show the often-overlooked story of an industry that powered America forward. Built entirely by the Union Pacific Coal Company, the town of Reliance came into existence in the first decade of the 20th century. To handle the massive amount of coal that was being mined, the railroad built a tipple in town, where millions of tons of coal were sized and sorted by men, women and machines onto waiting railroad cars. Then in 1936 a new tipple was built entirely of steel and iron which waits today to tell visitors the rich mining stories of old.

You can get a sense of the historic mining period by taking a self-guided tour of the tipple. No need to bring a pickaxe though, coal is no longer mined here, and any spirits you might come across mean you no harm.

HOW TO SEE IT: Take US-191 three miles north of Rock Springs and turn east on Reliance Road. You'll see the steel tipple about two miles ahead. Park along the footpath and take a two-minute walk to the tipple's first interpretive sign.

THE EXPEDITION OF JOHN WESLEY POWELL

If you want to blend a little history with your fun Green River adventure, Expedition Island in the City of Green River is at the ready. Originally a starting point for Major John Wesley Powell's expeditions in 1869 and 1871, this island oasis is the perfect spot for family picnics, tubing, kayaking, "blue ribbon" trout fishing and rafting. Or just take a stroll on the island's path while the kids monkey around on the playground. If you come at just the right time, you can catch an event like the River Festival, Art on the Green and Flaming Gorge Days.

See Page 14 for more information on Expedition Island in Green River.*

FOSSILS OF LAKE GOSIUTE

Time-travel to the Eocene Era at Lake Gosiute, once home to a diverse population of strange creatures that flourished in the lush vegetation and tropical shores. Fast-forward 58 million years and it's an archaeologist's paradise with fossil-rich soil that tells tales of ecosystems past. The lake once stretched from Pinedale, Wyoming in the north to Manila, Utah in the south, and it spanned as far as Rawlins to the east and Lyman to the west. If you have a keen eye for fossils, you're sure to find a few in the area. To enjoy interpretive exhibits and tours, make sure to stop by the visitor center at Fossil Butte National Monument on US-30, just east of Kemmerer.

HOW TO SEE IT: From I-80, take exit 103 (College Drive) and continue for about a mile. The destination is on your right.

INDUSTRY IN SWEETWATER COUNTY

It's hard not to notice that the industrial roots of Southwest Wyoming are still alive and well. Combined with the pioneer spirit of the past, Sweetwater County is still a pioneering leader in the world's energy industry.

Sweetwater County is home to the world's most massive and easily mineable trona deposits. Trona is the raw soda ash material used to make glass, paper, and several other everyday products.

There are also many new developments coming to the area. In November 2021, representatives from Rocky Mountain Power and TerraPower announced that the new Natrium Nuclear project will be located near Kemmerer, WY, in neighboring Lincoln County. Firearm company Kel Tec recently opened a facility in Sweetwater County and in September 2022, Williams Companies announced that it, in a joint venture with Crowheart Energy, will invest $300 million in natural gas development in a 1-million-acre field in the Wamsutter area. In addition, several of the Trona mines in the county are currently undergoing large expansion projects.

The Wyoming Business Council estimated that an additional 5,800 jobs may be realized in Sweetwater County by 2028.

HELP KEEP WYOMING WILD AND FREE.

As a supporter of the WY Responsibly initiative, we encourage mindful travel that supports our land, wildlife, businesses, and residents. Let's all do our part to experience Wyoming's majesty responsibly.

FLAMING GORGE COUNTRY

SET YOUR BOLD SIDE

On Fire

Something amazing happens when you strip away the crowds and set foot in one of the nation's most unspoiled natural playgrounds. You get to rediscover what adventure is all about.

Experience Flaming Gorge Country and drive around the Flaming Gorge - Green River Basin Scenic Byway, a newly designated All-American Road - one of only 37 All-American roads in the country! The Flaming Gorge Scenic Byway loops around the dramatic landscapes surrounding Lake Flaming Gorge.

Situated where the rugged Uinta Mountains meet the expansive Wyoming Desert, the breathtaking scenery is the perfect setting for year-round recreation and home to a wide array of wildlife like Pronghorn Antelope, Big Horn Sheep, Mule Deer, Eagles, and more! The area offers endless recreation opportunities, from water sports like rafting, kayaking, boating, and paddleboarding to hiking trails for all ages and abilities and extraordinary fishing. Just 30 minutes south of the hustle and bustle of the city, Flaming Gorge Country is an outdoor lover's wonderland.

Throughout history, Flaming Gorge Country has hosted mountain men, pioneers, outlaws, and Native Americans. Today, it welcomes anyone with an insatiable appetite for adventure and those just looking to enjoy the stunning scenery. The fun continues year-round, even when the snowflakes begin to fall. The area offers everything from cross-country skiing and snowshoeing to ice fishing for the big catch. No matter the time of year, Flaming Gorge Country is a "must-see" while visiting Sweetwater County. If you want to simply enjoy the sights and leave the planning to us, full-day guided bus tours of Flaming Gorge are available during the summer months. Learn more on page 45.

LAKE FLAMING GORGE

You can't leave without setting afloat on the beauty and grandeur of the enormous Lake Flaming Gorge - which allows boating the majority of the year.

Boaters have their pick of nine paved boat ramps and three full-service marinas for full days of waterskiing or cruising in a pontoon or houseboat. Anglers can cast lines all year for trophy-sized trout, kokanee and smallmouth bass. And when you're not on the water, you can stop by the two visitor centers, trek 200 miles of trails and camp at one of the 600 campsites.

HOW TO ACCESS IT:

From I-80, take US-191 or HWY-530 south for 17 miles into Flaming Gorge National Recreation Area.

KILLPECKER SAND DUNES

PLAY IN NATURE'S

Sand Box

About one million years ago, volcanoes spewed lava and hot ash over much of Sweetwater County. Thankfully, millennia of dormancy and wind erosion have turned the volcanic materials into thousands of acres of soft sand, piled high to create a sandy playground like no other.

With the largest dunes found east of Eden, the Killpecker Sand Dunes can reach heights of over 100 feet and run for over 100 miles from west to east. Amidst the beautiful, soft dunes, the remains of ancient volcanoes and their lava flows can be seen as flat-topped buttes and spires like the 400-foot-tall Boar's Tusk, North Table Mountain, South Table Mountain, Black Rock, Spring Butte and the Leucite Hills.

Motor sport enthusiasts from across the country bring their dune buggies, dirt bikes and ATVs to tear up the 11,000 acres of designated open play space. Novice riders learn the ropes on flatter areas and smaller dunes while the experts show their skills on mammoth dunes that reach 100 feet high.

SURF THE DUNES

Sandboards and sleds are for sale!

When you're not kicking up sand with motors and tires, make sure to toss a Frisbee, surf down the dunes on a sandboard or sled or play an unforgettable match of beach volleyball. Or hike the dunes and try to spot the herd of rare desert elk, found nowhere else in North America. Or tour the surrounding area with your binoculars and camera to capture Southwest Wyoming's wild horses. And at the end of the day as the sun dips down, look west. It's sure to be a sunset you won't soon forget.

These are backcountry roads with no services, so it's a good idea to fuel up a high-clearance, AWD vehicle and travel in nice weather, preferably starting in the morning. Finally, make sure to let someone know where you are going before you venture out to the Killpecker Sand Dunes.

HOW TO ACCESS IT:

From Rock Springs, take US-191 about 10 miles to the north. Turn right at CR 4-18 (at the sign that reads Petroglyphs, Sand Dunes, Boar's Tusk), and then turn left at CR 4-17.

From Point of Rocks, exit I-80 and go east on the paved road past the Jim Bridger Power Plant and open-pit coal mine. Continue west as the road forks to the Natural Corrals, and then turn north over the ridge to the wildlife viewing area and the Killpecker Dune Field.

Sandboards and sleds are available for purchase for $209, which includes one board or sled, board wax and a safety flag. An adjustable helmet is also available for purchase. Buy your boards and sleds in person at the visitor center located at 1641 Elk St. in Rock Springs. Call (307) 382-2538 for more info!

ATV/ OHV-ING

TAKE THE (MUCH) LESS Beaten Path

Something almost magical happens when you mount an off-road vehicle and forge down a path with nature all around. Just you and the unspoiled setting, it's hard not to let the hum of the engine take you to a meditative state of both exhilaration and awe. And as you travel down the off-road terrain in Sweetwater County, you tend to find yourself along the way.

In Southwest Wyoming, you have your pick of riding trails no matter what level rider you may be or how long of a ride you want to take. If you prefer stunning views of a shimmering high-desert lake, there's no place like Flaming Gorge. But if you really want to catch some air, head to the Killpecker Sand Dunes for some high-flying sandy fun.

Some Basic Laws, Rules and Tips to Know:

- Wear your helmet. Riders and passengers under age 18 are required by law, but everyone should wear a helmet. Worn properly, it won't restrict your vision or hearing, and it can also help cut windblast. But most importantly, it can save your life.
- Wear gloves, abrasion-resistant clothing and over-the-ankle boots.
- Youth ages 8-15 must possess an OHV certificate to operate an OHV on public land.
- Ride only on designated routes and areas open to OHVs.
- Ride in single file on the right side of the road.
- Watch for oncoming traffic, especially on blind curves or in dips and crests of hills.
- It is illegal to drive an OHV while under the influence of alcohol or drugs.
- A red or orange "whip flag" must be attached to OHVs when riding in sand dune areas.
- Lights must be used sunset to sunrise.
- Be sure your brakes control and stop your OHV.
- Mufflers with an approved spark arrestor are required on all OHVs (snowmobiles don't require spark arrestors).

You can apply for an OHV permit online at <http://wyotrails.state.wy.us/ORV/Permits.aspx>, by mail or in person at authorized vendor locations and at a few locations in surrounding states. When applying in person, please bring the following:

- Proof of residency (driver's license or other state-issued identification)
- Proof of ownership (title or current registration or bill of sale)
- $15 for each machine

MOUNTAIN BIKING

TAKE A TWO-WHEELED JOURNEY.

Whether you consider yourself a novice mountain biker or a true gearhead, it's no secret that Sweetwater County is home to some of the nation's most sought-after trails. Southwest Wyoming offers the ideal combination of wide-open spaces, abundant public lands and knack for adventure, making it a top destination for endless fun on two wheels. Just don't be surprised if you encounter as much wildlife as you do other bikers!

#1 WILKINS PEAK TRAIL SYSTEM

Named the most popular trail system in the state, Wilkins Peak Trail System offers single track trails for riders of every skill level. Fourteen trails and more than 20 miles of varied terrain and features including switchbacks, bridges and drops will challenge even the most advanced riders - it's what keeps mountain bike enthusiasts coming back again and again.

Channel Surfing Trail

Skill Level: Beginner | Distance: 1.66 Miles
For a trail with beautiful views of the city of Green River and natural bluffs, ride the Channel Surfing trail. The trail follows the Green River and features minimal elevation gain and softer, sandier terrain in some areas due to its proximity to the river.

Brent and Mikes Trail

Skill Level: Intermediate | Distance: 6 Miles
The intermediate rider will not want to miss this adventurous trail featuring bridges, ladders, berms and drops. Alternate routes around each feature make this desert ride accessible to more novice riders as well.

Pick Your Poison Trail

Skill Level: Expert | Distance: 5 Miles
For a fun and challenging trail with obstacles and technical features, advanced riders will want to ride the Pick Your Poison trail, starting at the Brent and Mikes trail. Expect tight switchbacks, steep climbs and many other natural features on this scenic trail.

Insider Tip: Trail reports are regularly updated on the Sweetwater Mountain Biking Association's Facebook page.
HOW TO ACCESS IT: From I-80, take exit 91 to continue on E Flaming Gorge Way in Green River. Turn right on Uinta Drive and then left on W Astle Avenue. Continue on to Mountain Fuel Station Road which turns right into E Teton Boulevard. Turn left off of E Teton just north of Jackson Elementary School and cross the river bridge. This road travels to the right where you will see a parking area next to the outdoor archery range. Park here for a longer ride or to access the beginner trails such as Channel Surfing.

There is a second parking area and Info Kiosk 0.5 miles farther down the road. This is the trailhead for intermediate and advanced trails, Fast Exit, Drains and Don't Chute. From here you can ride to the Brent & Mikes trail or drive another 2 miles to the trailhead.

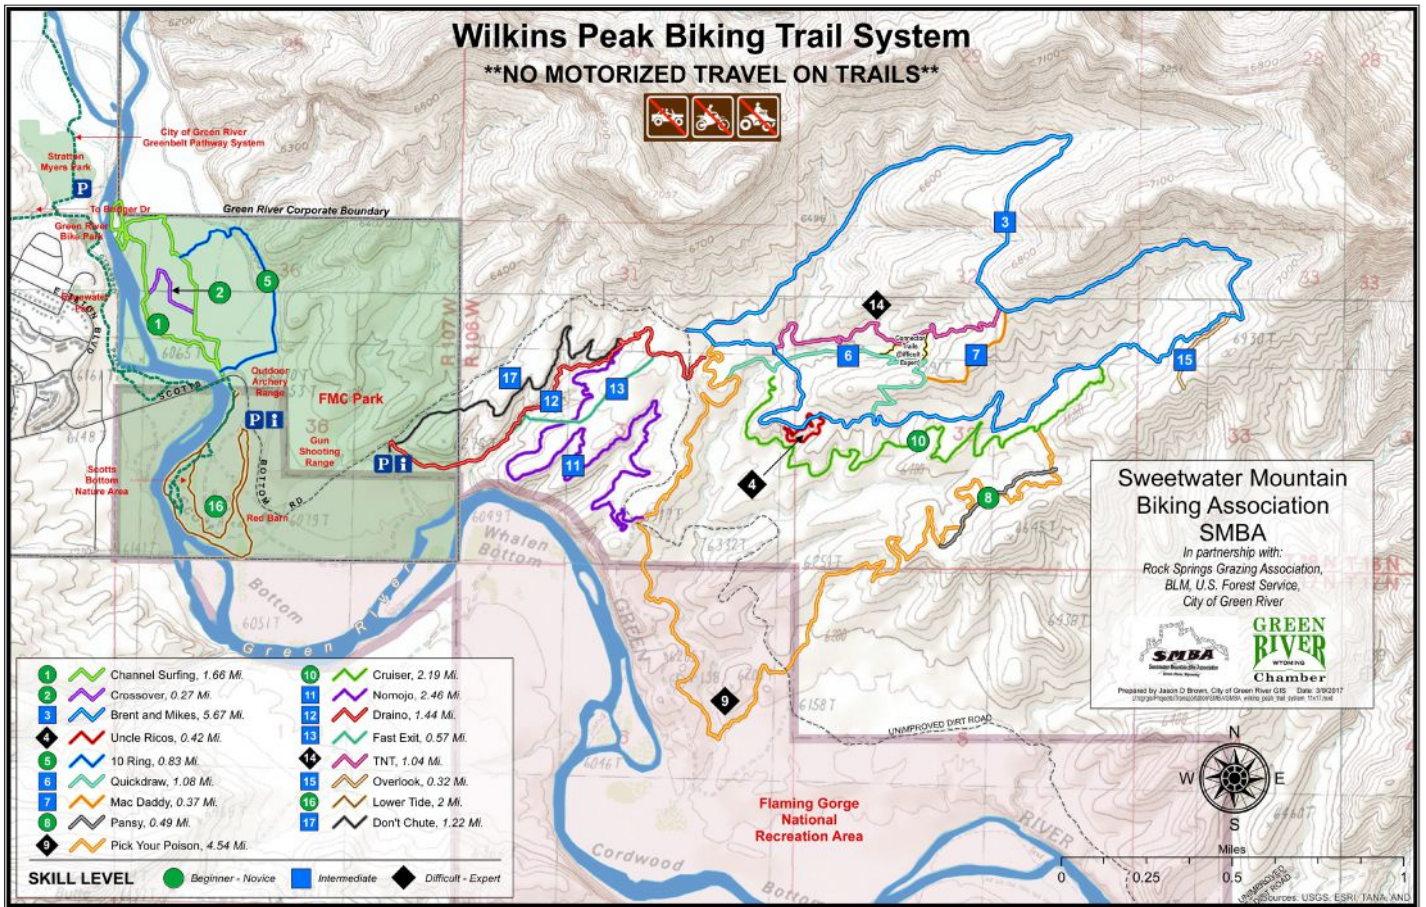

#2 MUSTANG LOOP TRAIL

Beginning bikers will love the Mustang Loop Trail, the newest bike trail in Sweetwater County. This multi-use path stretches three miles long and is easy to access, located just west of Western Wyoming Community College along Gateway Boulevard.

The trail was completed in the fall of 2021 and is open for community use. Hikers, bikers and in wintertime cross-country skiers are welcome. Make sure to plan a return visit, as even more developments are coming, such as teeter-totters, rails and more skill items for mountain bikers.

HOW TO ACCESS IT: Take Gateway Blvd to the West Parking Lot of Western Wyoming Community College. Turn right once in the parking lot and look for a trailhead with signage and map.

ROCK FORMATIONS

CARVE YOUR VACATION OUT OF STONE.

Take one look at the Southwestern Wyoming landscape, and imagine the ancient lake that covered the area millions of years ago. Lucky for us, the receding waters left behind some of nature's finest works of art—enormous, beautiful formations of sandstone and shale.

CASTLE ROCK

Towering above downtown Green River, Castle Rock is one of the most formidable geological landmarks in Sweetwater County. Over the years, it's been called the Citadel, Indian Head Rock and Green River Butte. But the layers of fossilized fish and plants that form its walls stand as a testimony to the watery kingdom it once reigned over.

HOW TO SEE IT: Along I-80 on the north side of Green River. You can also hike up the north end of 3rd West Street.

THE PALISADES & TOLLGATE ROCK

Deeply engrained in U.S. history, the Palisades have served many purposes. Native Americans crossed the Green River here and used the formation's walls as protection from the elements. Trappers and traders also used this as a landmark. Frontier landscape artist Thomas Moran's first sketch in the West was of this rock formation, later translated into the paintings.

HOW TO SEE IT: Along I-80, northwest of Green River.

Standing at 6,440 feet above sea level, Tollgate Rock is likely the tallest "toll station" in history. Named for the number of tolls collected here, this impressive formation served as a gateway for an early-Mormon road, so the stories go. County records do show that many tolls were paid, but thankfully those tolls aren't being assessed today.

PILOT BUTTE

Dominating the surrounding landscape at 7,949 feet tall, Pilot Butte has been used as a navigational landmark since people first came to the region. Native Americans used it to find campsites, hunting grounds and rivers, and it's still used as an orientation point today. The summit provides breathtaking panoramic views.

HOW TO SEE IT: Take US-191 north of Rock Springs. Turn left on CR 53/Wild Horse Loop, and follow it until you can veer left toward the butte on top of White Mountain.

KISSING ROCKS

Suspended mere inches from actually "kissing" each other, Native Americans believed that the spirits of two doomed lovers from opposing tribes inhabited the rocks, only to spend eternity just out of each other's reach.

HOW TO SEE IT: Along I-80, between Green River and Rock Springs.

BOAR'S TUSK

Boar's Tusk holds great religious importance to the Native Americans of the region. The core of an ancient volcano, it rises out of the ground like a 400-foot-tall guardian to the Killpecker Sand Dunes. Virtually a geological twin to Devil's Tower in northeast Wyoming, this volcanic spire attracts rock climbers of all abilities.

HOW TO SEE IT: Take an AWD vehicle up US-191 about 10 miles north of Rock Springs. Turn right at CR 4-18 (at the sign that reads Petroglyphs, Sand Dunes, Boar's Tusk) and then left on CR 4-17.

WILD HORSES

RUN WILD AND LET YOUR

Mane Fly

Few places remain in this great nation that have been left untamed. But in Sweetwater County, as you hear the thunderous sound of pounding hooves in the wide-open landscape, you're reminded that the frontier spirit is still alive and well.

As you watch these wild horses run carefree with their manes flowing in the wind, it's a reminder that the West is still wild. And with a population of about 1,500 heads, chances are strong to be able to admire these herds that descended from the horses reintroduced to the area in the 1800s by historic trail travelers and cattle ranchers.

The Pilot Butte Wild Horse Scenic Loop offers a rare chance to witness the majesty of these wild horses among some of the most scenic overlooks that Southwest Wyoming has to offer. This 24-mile, self-guided tour takes about 90 minutes and gives you control as you watch for wild horses between Rock Springs and Fourteen-Mile Hill, and all the way across the top of White Mountain. Stay on the lookout for other critters like antelope, desert elk, deer, rabbits, coyotes, hawks, eagles and sage grouse.

If you're short on time, visit the Rock Springs Wild Horse Holding Facility, where wild horses are sheltered short term before adoption. At your own pace, you can view these magnificent animals year-round from a viewing kiosk that overlooks the facility. But if you come in the spring, you'll have the best chance to see the foals come out to play.

For those looking for a unique way to see the wild horses register for the Run with the Horses Marathon! This race is run on the third Saturday in August each year. This race is truly one of a kind. Run alongside the Wild Horses and other wildlife that call this area home. Learn more at runwiththehorsesmarathon.com.

HOW TO ACCESS THE PILOT BUTTE WILD HORSE SCENIC LOOP: From exit 104 off of I-80 in Rock Springs, go 14 miles north on US-191, and then left onto CR 4-14 (Fourteen-Mile Road) for 2.5 miles. Turn left onto CR 4-53, and follow for 21.5 miles to Green River. From Green River, exit I-80 to Flaming Gorge Way, and turn onto Wild Horse Canyon Road. Grab your camera and binoculars, pack plenty of food and water, and make sure to travel in a fueled-up AWD vehicle and always let someone know where you will be going.

HOW TO SEE THE ROCK SPRINGS WILD HORSE FACILITY: Take I-80 from Rock Springs to the Elk Street exit 104 and go north one mile. Turn right onto Lionkol Road and go about a half mile to the facility. For more information, call (307) 352-0292.

SEEDSKADEE NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE

UNLEASH YOUR Wild Side

Established in 1965, the Seedskadee National Wildlife Refuge is more than 26,000 acres of wide-open wildlife adventure waiting to happen. Situated between the Fontenelle Dam and Green River, it's an animal enthusiast's playground.

Bird watchers have virtually endless opportunities to see the native bird species that call the refuge home, like prairie falcons, peregrine falcons, owls, hawks and Canadian geese. Bald and golden eagles can also be caught by the photographer's lens. And for anglers and hunters who come for sport, Seedskadee boasts world-class trout fishing and hunting for waterfowl and big game.

The entire refuge is open for walking, and you can also take a number of roads and tour routes by car. As you tour the refuge, keep an eye out for historic early-ranching sites, as well as the many crossings of the Oregon Trail, Mormon Trail, California Trail and Pony Express Route. Make sure to stop by the Lombard Ferry Historical Site, about 28 miles west of Farson on HWY-28.

HOW TO ACCESS IT: Head west on I-80 to the LaBarge State Highway 372 north, and go about 28 miles to the refuge headquarters turnoff.

RECREATION CENTERS

More Ways to Play

Escape the cold, take a break from the great outdoors or change up your daily routine - Sweetwater County has three indoor recreation centers with a plethora of activities to choose from. Enjoy play areas, pools and fitness classes for every age all year long.

ROCK SPRINGS CIVIC CENTER

WHO SAID FITNESS IS ONLY FOR HOME?

Offering 45,000 square feet of family fun, the Rock Springs Civic Center invites climbers, swimmers and fitness fans to explore every square inch.

The 56-foot climbing wall allows up to 18 climbers—from beginner to advanced—to test their skills on a top-to-bottom crack, overhangs and a bouldering cave.

The 25-meter pool lets water fans dive, slide or even soak in the on-deck hot tub. You can also join in on a variety of lessons and classes, get in a game of racquetball, or choose one of five gyms to work out at. This facility also has an indoor golf simulator. If one of the kids is having a birthday, the cake, party favors and cleanup are all included in the party-room rental.

GREEN RIVER RECREATION CENTER

A LITTLE BIT OF SWEAT.
A WHOLE LOT OF FUN.

Featuring an Olympic-sized, L-shaped swimming pool for both competitions and fun, the Green River Recreation Center is fit for any purpose. You'll find a variety of poolside swim programs, lessons and exercise classes for all ages, and the pool comes complete with a "tot dock" and diving board.

You can also pump some iron in the full weight room, jog the track or hit the gymnasium for some basketball, volleyball, soccer, tennis or aerobics. Or take your love of sports outdoors on the 9,000-square-foot recreation deck, where you can play tetherball or even ice skate in winter. While you work out, your kids ages three months to six years can have some fun of their own in the nursery. And if you're not coming for fitness, there's a multipurpose room outfitted with a full-service kitchenette for your business meeting, wedding shower or birthday party.

ROCK SPRINGS FAMILY RECREATION CENTER

BOOST YOUR HEART RATE AND YOUR SMILE.

If time on the road begins to feel like work, there's no shortage of play at the Rock Springs Family Recreation Center.

Get with a group to join in on some Zumba, spin, yoga, step, hydro-aerobics, pilates, fusion, or power ball. You can also put on your suit and enjoy the state-of-the-art aquatic expansion, complete with a therapy pool, hydro-tubes, lazy river, climbing wall, spray water area and plenty of tables, chairs, and chaise lounges for chilling out.

Hockey players and figure skaters will love cutting up the ice in the rink, and the pro shop has your equipment if you don't bring it along. If swinging is more up your alley, you can hit up the batting cage to work on your batting average or handicap. If you need some space for a party or meeting, the activity room has you covered.

SCENIC Drives

Nowhere else in the world is the famous saying—you have to see it to believe it—more true. The uniquely beautiful landscape of Sweetwater County is unlike any other, and it's best witnessed during inspiring scenic drives. Whether you bring a camera, a canvas or a poetry journal, the most important thing to remember is to open your eyes.

FLAMING GORGE SCENIC BYWAY

The Flaming Gorge Scenic Byway is a designated All-American road, one of only 37 in the country. This spectacular scenic drive takes in the arid and colorful landscape surrounding the Green River as it slowly tumbles from its namesake city to Lake Flaming Gorge. You can see this byway – often referred to as “the best of Sweetwater County” in just a few hours.

ROCK SPRINGS

Rock Springs offers access to the eastern half of this scenic drive. Spend time exploring local shops, restaurants and museums in a vibrant downtown scene. Or try climbing the 56-foot wall at the Rock Springs Civic Center.

LAKE FLAMING GORGE

While your drive includes views of Lake Flaming Gorge, make sure to stop at one of the scenic overlooks. Take in the beauty of the area and consider stopping for a picnic at the Firehole Canyon Overlook off of HWY-530.

FLAMING GORGE BUS TOURS

Take a full-day tour of the national recreational area and stop at scenic overlooks, learn more about the area and indulge in a delicious lunch. Enjoy the breathtaking sights and leave the planning to us. For more information visit page 45.

EXPEDITION ISLAND

Whether you start or end in Green River, it's worth the time to visit Expedition Island. Not only a historic landmark, the island is a destination for summer festivals, swimming, fishing, tubing and more.

SWEETWATER COUNTY

Distance: 150 miles (suitable for most vehicles)

Route: From Green River or Rock Springs, exit I-80 onto the byway and loop around Lake Flaming Gorge.

AUDIO GUIDED TOUR

Take a listen to the introduction and begin your journey through the Flaming Gorge Country and Lake Flaming Gorge: www.ExploreWY.com/FGbyway

PILOT BUTTE WILD HORSE SCENIC LOOP

See Southwest Wyoming's wild horses in an unforgettable way. With the breathtaking high-desert landscape as your backdrop, go off-road and witness these majestic creatures in their natural habitat. Look out for other critters as well including desert elk, rabbits, coyotes, hawks and eagles.

ROCK SPRINGS WILD HORSE HOLDING FACILITY

The Wild Horse Holding Facility houses more than 800 wild horses at times which are also available for adoption. View these magnificent animals year-round from a viewing kiosk or schedule a guided tour of the facility.

PILOT BUTTE

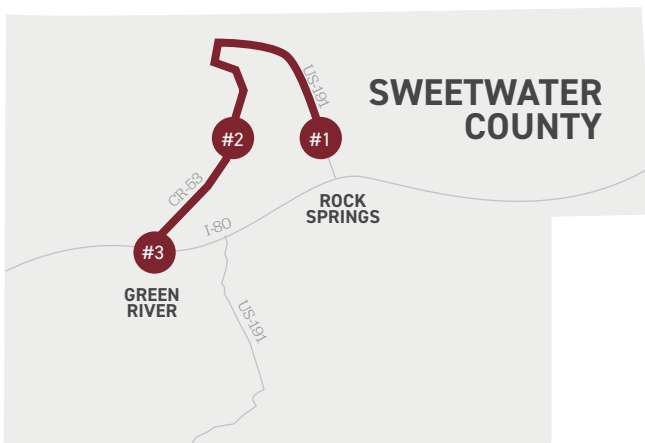

Make a stop at Pilot Butte, the second highest point in the immediate region at 7,949 feet tall. Stretch your legs, take some photos, or get adventurous and hike. Summit Pilot Butte for a chance to view wild horses and panoramic views of Sweetwater County.

GREEN RIVER

Green River marks the end of this scenic drive. Stroll through a charming downtown, visit a museum or get in some runs at the Green River Bike Park. There's plenty to explore in this riverside town.

Distance: 23 miles (recommended for AWD vehicles)

Route: From Rock Springs, take I-80 to Elk Street exit 104 and go north. Turn right onto Lionkol Road to visit the Wild Horse Holding Facility or continue north on Elk Street (US-191) 14 miles and turn left on CR 4-14 (Fourteen Mile Road). Travel 2.5 miles and take a left on CR-53. Follow CR-53 until you reach the turnoff for Pilot Butte. Or continue on CR-53 for 21.5 miles to Green River. To access the route from Green River, exit I-80 at Flaming Gorge Way and turn on Wild Horse Canyon Road.

SEEDSKADEE, KILLPECKER + WHITE MOUNTAIN CIRCUIT

See a trifecta of Sweetwater County's most impressive sights in less than a day. From the abundant wildlife of Seedska-dee to the majestic dunes of Killpecker to the ancient petroglyphs of White Mountain, it's a stunning geographic and historic tour you won't find anywhere else.

SEEDSKADEE NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE

Adjacent to the Green River, the Seedska-dee National Wildlife Refuge is a haven for wildlife. Go hunting, fishing or just enjoy a picnic by the river. Make a stop by the Visitor's and Environmental Education Center to view exhibits, join a class or take a tour.

KILLPECKER SAND DUNES

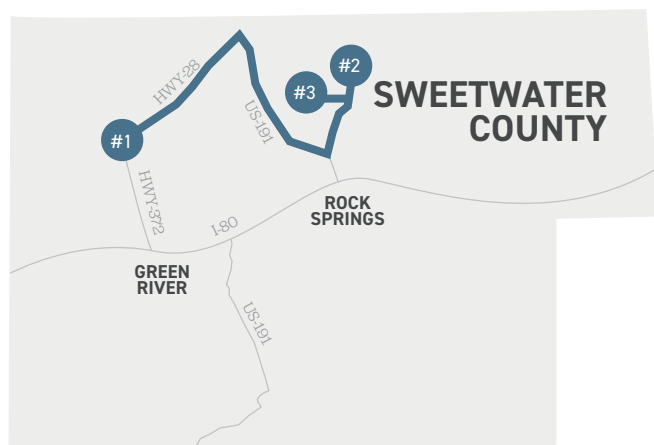

Next, stop at the Killpecker Sand Dunes. View rock formations from afar or try to spot wildlife including wild horses and rare desert elk. Spend extra time exploring the sand dunes by hiking to Table Mountain, Black Rock or the Leucite Hills.

WHITE MOUNTAIN PETROGLYPHS

White Mountain is part of the Green River Formation which was formed by Lake Gosiute more than 30 million years ago. Discover sandstone etchings from Native Americans who inhabited the area hundreds of years ago by following the ¼-mile trail to the petroglyphs.

Distance: 130 miles (recommended for AWD vehicles)

Route: From Green River, take I-80 to the WY-372 exit and head to the Seedska-dee Wildlife Refuge. Go north on WY-372, right on WY-28, and then right on US-191. Turn left at CR 4-18 (at the sign that reads Petroglyphs, Sand Dunes, Boar's Tusk), then left at CR 4-17, and drive about 14 miles on the dirt road until you reach the White Mountain Petroglyphs sign. Turn left onto the rougher dirt road and drive about 2 miles until you reach the BLM parking lot. From here, you're on foot for ¼ mile on a packed foot trail to the petroglyphs.

CAFES, TEAHOUSE + DONUTS

Start the Day Right

...OR MAKE THE AFTERNOON LAST A LITTLE LONGER

Every day in Sweetwater County starts well when you have a cup of locally brewed coffee or tea in one hand and a fresh donut in the other. With an abundance of local cafés, breakfast and brunch spots, you'll have no problem discovering what's brewing before you head out for the day! Start with a fresh cup of coffee at one of Rock Springs and Green River's epic coffee shops, like Coal Train Coffee Depot or Deja Brew. For heartier options, fuel up at Eve's for brunch or try the crepes at Crepes & Café. See a complete list on page 49.

Must Try! Featured on the Food Network, Cowboy Donuts not only offers delicious donuts but also savory kolaches.

FLAMING GORGE BUS TOURS

Enjoy a Full-Day Tour

OF THE FLAMING GORGE NATIONAL RECREATION AREA

Enjoy a full-day bus tour of the Flaming Gorge National Recreation Area. Complete with transportation on an air-conditioned motor coach, breathtaking sites along Southwest Wyoming's designated All-American Road, and lunch is included. Tickets for these locally guided trips through time are only $68. Stops include Firehole, Flaming Gorge Dam, Red Canyon, Sheep Creek, and more. The Flaming Gorge tour allows you to explore like never before. Experience the wildlife, geology, and history of Flaming Gorge Country. This tour is fun for all ages, with trivia, a scavenger hunt for the kids (and the kids at heart), and more. In addition to lunch, you'll enjoy Cowboy Donuts, ice cream, snacks, and bottled water along the route. Just bring yourself, comfortable walking shoes, and a camera to capture the stunning scenery. Enjoy the views and leave the planning to us! See for yourself why others are giving the Flaming Gorge Tour 5 stars. Tours depart from the Explore Rock Springs and Green River Visitor Center located at 1641 Elk Street in Rock Springs. Tickets are available now at ExploreWY.com for more information and a complete list of tour dates.
